Personal Privilege.

Senator Parnell received unanimous consent to have the following printed in the Journal:

Austin, Texas, Oct. 5, 1926.
Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

I rise to a point of personal privilege for the purpose of correcting a statement appearing in the Dallas News, the issue of October 5th, on page 2, the article being headlined with the following words: "Oil Men Win, Children Pay."

This statement, in my opinion, was made for the purpose, as many other statements have been made, of prejudicing the minds of the people against the oil industry. I give the authors of the statement credit for being sincere in their efforts to secure a sufficient appropriation to bring the per capita allotment of the Public School Fund up to fifteen dollars. I am, however, forced to disagree with them as to their tactics and the propaganda that has been broadcast over the State concerning the oil industry and its supposed opposition to the three cent gasoline tax. Reference has been made upon the floor of the House and the Senate to the lobby maintained by the oil companies and the influence they exercise upon members of both branches of the Legislature. I want to say that the various oil companies of the State have, to my certain knowledge, refrained from maintaining a large lobby or spending any appreciable amount of money for the purpose of passing or defeating any measures affecting the oil industry. It is true that from time to time representatives of the oil companies have been in Austin and have appeared before the various committees of both branches of the Legislature. I do not believe, however, that they should be condemned or criticized for appearing as legitimate representatives of a legitimate industry. I have observed that when a banking measure is pending before the Legislature, representatives of the State Banking Association have appeared before the committees and presented their views with reference to these bills; also, I have observed that the bills have been referred to committees whose chairman and some of the members are interested in the banking business. The live stock industry has maintained a lobby in the Texas Legislature for many years and the Senator from Duval, who is himself engaged in the cattle-raising business, is chairman of the Committee on Live Stock and Stock Raising. All bills affecting this industry are referred to his committee, and rightly so. And I have no objections to representatives appearing for these industries or any other industries in Texas before any committee for the purpose of presenting their views and assisting the Legislature in passing such measures as will benefit all parties concerned.

For some reason a few of the members of the Legislature take great pride in singling out the oil industry and challenging the right of their representatives to even sojourn in Austin while the Legislature is in session or to appear before the committees to which bills affecting the industry have been referred. It is, in my opinion, nothing short of demagoguery of the worst sort for any man to seek to prejudice the minds of the people by making unfair and untrue statements and casting insinuations which would reflect upon the integrity of those representing a legitimate industry and destroy the good will of the people of this State against an industry that has perhaps done more toward the development of the State than any other industry.

It is my understanding that the various oil companies of the State are not opposing a reasonable tax on gasoline, but perhaps do oppose an unreasonable tax and an unequal distribution of the proceeds. I think it is true that they are at a loss to know why the oil industry should be singled out and excessive taxes assessed against them directly and indirectly while other natural resources of the State go untaxed, save and except the ad valorem tax that is paid by all property owners alike. It does seem that there are those who would seek the lines of least resistance in raising revenue for the State and assess a tax where they think it could be more easily obtained and without strenuous opposition. It is strange that no one has ever conceived the idea of passing a bill providing for a tax on the gross sales of automobiles and accessories. There are many other methods of raising revenue which would be just as fair and equitable as that of assessing a tax on gasoline; however, I do not care to argue that phase of the question any further, but will call attention to the two bills that have been presented, namely House Bills Nos. 291 and 292. It is my opinion that two high school boys could draw a better bill than that which has been presented to us levying a three cent tax on gasoline; also, that any average high school student could draft a better and more equitable measure than House Bill No. 292, which places a registration fee upon motor vehicles. The three cent gasoline tax would not affect the oil industry to any great extent save that as the price of gasoline goes higher the natural consequences are that the consumption declines; this, of course, interests the refiners and probably for that reason they would like to see the tax as low as possible.

But the main objections to the bill are that it provides that all the money collected from the gasoline tax, save and except that which goes into the School Fund, shall be placed in the State Treasury, subject to the disbursement of the Highway Commission and, as it has been amended, provides that every dollar of this money must be spent upon what is known as the "designated highway system of Texas." This system comprises approximately ten per cent of the highways of this State and serves not to exceed thirty per cent of the population of the State for practical purposes. This leaves seventy per cent of the people who do not benefit from the construction of the roads with this money, and yet they are forced to pay their portion of the tax.

It is true that every citizen has free access to these highways, but in every county of the State there are many communities where thousands of people live who are located from ten to twenty-five miles from what is known as a designated highway. The only time they ever use these tourist or motor bus highways is when they might be traveling from county to county or touring the State. The primary object of building good roads was for the purpose of building a county-wide system of highways which would enable the farmer to get to the market with his raw products. In the early stages of highway development in Texas this was the only argument advanced for the building of hard-surfaced roads, but within a few years we find that highway associations have been formed along with tourist clubs and automobiles associations, and we have sought to devote all funds available for the purposes of constructing highways to a channel where they could only be spent upon intra-county and intra-State roads, to be used mainly by tourists, motor trucks for hire, and motor busses. These roads in most instances parallel the railroads and do not serve the real purpose for which hard-surfaced roads were intended, and are only available to a small per cent of the taxpayers.

I do not want to be understood to say that these tourist highways are not all right. I have no objection to them, but on the contrary, favor them; however, it does seem to me that we should go back to the primary purpose of road building and try to build a county-wide system of roads with a part of the money that is being collected off of all the people.

After roads have been built in the rural districts for the purpose of transporting the raw products from the farm to the market, then it would be wise to connect up such highways as would enable the traveling of tourists and citizens from county to county as well as from State to State. Under the present plan, however, it will be many years before a State-wide system of roads can be built, and during that time the main purposes of road improvement are being neglected and, as I have said before, the majority of the people are not being benefitted, but are being heavily taxed. If every member of this Senate will check up in the counties in his district he will find that most of his taxpayers do not live on the designated highways, and that up to the present time they do not have any improved roads leading into the rural districts. This is not true in every county, but it is true in ninety-eight per cent of the counties of the state.

Another question in connection with this bill for the consideration of the Senators and members of the Legislature, is the fact that approximately sixty-eight per cent of the gasoline consumed in the State is west of the ninety-seventh meridian, which means that a large majority of the tax will be collected from a minority of the taxpayers, while the records show that more than twice as much money has been spent upon the highways east of the ninety-seventh meridian; also, on that portion going into the School Fund the records show that approximately sixty-five per cent of that money is allotted on a per capita basis east of the ninety-seventh meridian, although the taxpayers west of the ninety-seventh meridian pay sixty-eight per cent of the gasoline tax.

Another objection, and one which is vital from the standpoint of the refiners of this State, is that the bill does not provide any exemption for gasoline sold to the State or Federal Government; the taxes assessed upon gasoline purchased by the Federal Government will positively prohibit the refiners of Texas from selling to them. There is one refinery in Texas whose sales to the Federal Government alone are in excess of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per year. This gasoline is used at the flying fields and for government purposes, and the gasoline tax alone would be in excess of thirty-six thousand dollars per year. Gasoline being sold on a small margin of profit, this tax would naturally prevent a Texas refinery from making a sale and would force the Government to buy outside of the State from a refinery where the tax would not apply. The three cent tax on gasoline sold to the city of Wichita Falls alone would cost that city better than three thousand dollars a year, although the vehicles consuming the gasoline never use a highway outside the city limits, and this tax should not be assessed against a municipality or any branch of the State Government. The whole bill as drawn is inequitable and unfair and would work a hardship in many ways upon the people if it were to pass.

The Motor Registration Bill, which is House Bill No. 292, provides for a reduction in license fees on everything except motor trucks and motor busses and would leave the entire proceeds collected from this source to the various counties of the State. At a first glance this might seem to be a very attractive proposition from the standpoint of the counties, but when you analyze it, you will find that the smaller counties where only a few automobiles are registered would receive a very small amount of money, and a majority of them could not build as much as one mile of road with the entire proceeds received from the registration of automobiles in their counties. On the contrary, it would leave hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars in the larger counties, which counties in many cases have already completed a very efficient system of county highways. I do not know how the citizens of other large counties feel, but I am sure that I speak the sentiment of my constituents of Wichita County when I say that we are just as interested in building good roads in all the counties in our trade territory as we are in Wichita County, and it is our desire that this money be so pro-rated as will permit the building of highways in adjoining counties and in the trade territory of Wichita Falls.

Still another objection to this bill is the fact that it seeks to reduce the registration fee on large cars some four hundred per cent, while on the smaller car and the car that is used for practical purposes the tax is only reduced one hundred and fifty per cent. This bill is not an equitable measure and its proceeds are not distributed so as to get the best results for all the taxpayers of the State. The question might be asked why the amendments could not be offered including all the provisions I have stated here and curing these defects, then pass the two bills at this session of the Legislature; but in doing that we would practically destroy the Highway Commission by taking away a larger part of the money they now receive. Then my contention is and has been that these two bills should be deferred until such time as we can work out a bill or bills which will bring in sufficient revenue to take care of road construction for all purposes, and not continue to assess a tax that is not properly distributed and from which the people who pay it will not receive benefit.

Again I say that the objection is not coming from the oil industry, nor is the objection to these bills fostered by the oil companies or their representatives. They may concur with me and with other members of this Senate as to the objections that have been raised, and I am sure that when the proper bill is submitted they will not oppose it, regardless of the fact that every oil producer in the State feels that he is paying an excessive share of State taxes. Perhaps it has not occurred to many people of this State that the oil industry is now paying from thirty-three and a third per cent to forty per cent of the gross revenue of this State. They have not even complained a great deal, because of this condition of affairs, but in my opinion they have a just cause of complaint, and it should be considered by the people. They are entitled to the same fair consideration that is given to every other industry of the State. I have many neighbors and constituents in my district who are oil producers and I have learned to know them and have the same high respect and the same regard for them as I have for any other citizen. They are engaged in a legitimate business, which brings hundreds of millions of dollars to every section of Texas each year, and these men are just as honorable, just as upright, and just as fair in their business dealings, both as to personal affairs and economic affairs of the State Government, as those engaged in any other business. The remarks that have been directed against them are without cause and should not be tolerated by any member of this Senate or by any citizen of the State of Texas. In deferring action on these two bills the members of this Senate had a good and valid reason and were prompted by their good judgment and their desire to act in the best interests of the people of this State.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 8, 1926.

Hon. Barry Miller, President of the Senate.

Sir: I am directed by the House to inform the Senate that the House has passed the following bills:

H. C. R. No. 10, providing for sine die adjournment October 8, at 3 p. m.

Simple Resolution No. 37.

Senator Moore sent up the following simple resolution:

Whereas, The business of the State of Texas demands the thoughtful consideration of the entire citizenship; and

Whereas, The time consumed by the Legislature in considering legislation of purely local interest is expensive to the taxpayers as a whole; and

Whereas, The government of both State and Nation is founded upon the high and noble principle of local self government; and

Whereas, Since the adoption of the present Constitution of our State the Legislature has been burdened at each session with countless—almost innumerable—school district bills; and

Whereas, In the formation of local school districts many injustices are apt to be done that ought and could be avoided; and

Whereas, The Legislature has for years recognized the wrongs and injustice of the system now in effect; and

Whereas, There has been submitted to the citizens of Texas for their approval the proposition to take out of the hands of the Legislature the right and power to create, or legislate on, local school districts; and

Whereas, The citizens of Texas will be called upon at the coming November General Election to adopt or reject the proposal to place the matter of creating local school districts in the hands of some local county agency; therefore be it

Resolved, That we call upon the taxpaying citizens of Texas, the press of the State, members of the bar, the ministry, all county officials, school teachers and other school authorities, to give earnest and thoughtful consideration to this important question to the end that the proposed constitutional amendment will be adopted at the coming November General Election; and be it further

Resolved, That we, State Senators, pledge our unqualified support to this important and forward step, and that we will speak for and advocate the adoption of this important constitutional provision at the coming November General Election, believing as we do that the adoption of the said proposed constitutional amendment will be a great saving in money to the taxpayers; a conservation of time of the Legislature, and a return of power to local school and county agencies and authorities; and to the end that many injustices done under the system now in existence may be eliminated.

The resolution was read and adopted.
